

The Council of Spanish Architects and World-Architects.com sign a memorandum of understanding to further promote quality Spanish architecture throughout the world

28th September 2018

Last Wednesday 26th September 2018 in Madrid, Lluís Comerón Graupera, President of the Council of Spanish Architects (CSCAE in Spanish) and Renato Turri, CEO of the international architecture platform World-Architects.com, signed a memorandum of understanding intended to promote architectural events and notable projects by Spanish architects throughout the network and in the international online magazine of World-Architects in both Spanish and in English.

The collaboration between the two entities is based on a shared philosophy and hopes to foster general interest about architecture as a cultural, economic and social asset fundamental to today as well as to the future.

The key points of the agreement are:

1. To increase the visibility of the Council's agenda on the international platform www.world-architects.com and within the agenda of the national platform www.spanish-architects.com;
2. To promote the Council's philosophy and vision as well as the views of Spanish architects on current universal challenges in the international online magazine www.spanish-architects.com;
3. To work together in order to give more visibility to exhibitions and cultural and educational activities related to both Spanish architecture biennials: the Spanish Biennial of Architecture and the Iberian-American Biennial of Architecture and Urbanism.

The agreement, that has come into effect on the date of the signing, will have an indefinite duration.
